

The Ada was devastated in 1986 at the hands of an arsonist, leaving virtually nothing exposed above ground bar her forged hanging knees. Her prow rubbing straight and rudder stock remain intact and visible (left).

The Severn Collier was built in Stourport in 1937 as timber ship construction declined. Trophy hunters have sadly removed much of the oak planking (top and above).