

Degrees of enclosure

Varying the degrees of enclosure in the 'wall' and 'sky' planes of a path is an important design consideration. The experience of walking a path can be enlivened and made comfortable for example by controlling views, opening and closing glimpses, protecting from the elements and providing refuge along one edge.