

Upper left: Water sensitive urban design – wetlands design to capture and filter storm water runoff from roads and urban surfaces before it enters the Broadwater
 Lower left: Natural materials has been used where possible such as timber for the cross wetland boardwalk
 Upper right: Expansive parkland paths have been designed to accommodate a mix of uses
 Lower right: The use of solar panels reflect the parklands' commitment to sustainability

