

A STRATEGIC APPROACH TO LOCAL CHARACTER

Localism means starting from the place, rather than from administrative boundaries. The new joint Urban Design Guidance for Newcastle-under-Lyme Borough Council and Stoke-on-Trent City Council shows how a strategic urban design approach and cross-boundary working help realise the potential for local distinctiveness. By Jane Dann and Katja Stille

