

Upper left: Developed especially for this site, the Flow Bench is both, seat and sculpture
 Lower left: The surface material consists almost only of recycled natural paving stones which by use get more and more attractive
 Upper right: The structure follows a consistent layout in west-east direction from the town centre to the River Weser, thus creating orientation and a strong appearance
 Lower right: Sawn paving stones with smooth surfaces cover the main walking areas whereas the rough surfaces of cobbled zones along the edges of the quays signal "attention" and caution for pedestrian traffic
