

Contributors

Jonathan Barnett practices urban design with Wallace Roberts and Todd, LLC, in Philadelphia. He is a professor of practice in city and regional planning and director of the Urban Design Program at the University of Pennsylvania. His books include Smart Growth in a Changing World.

Denise Scott Brown is an architect and planner. She is a principal in Venturi, Scott Brown and Associates in Philadelphia.

Joan Busquets is Martin Bucksbaum Professor in Practice of Urban Planning and Design at Harvard University Graduate School of Design and an urban planner, urban designer, and architect. His books include Barcelona: The Urban Evolution of a Compact City and Cities X Lines: A New Lens for the Urbanistic Project.

Kenneth Greenberg is an architect and urban designer based in Toronto. He has designed master plans for downtowns, waterfronts, and neighborhoods in Toronto, Amsterdam, New York, Boston, Cambridge, St. Paul, Detroit, Hartford, Washington, D.C., Fort Lauderdale, San Juan, and Cincinnati.

John Kaliski is principal of Urban Studio, an architecture and urban design firm based in Los Angeles.