

- interdisciplinary programs, 230–31, 236n2; new programs in landscape architecture without departmental distinctions, 235n1; recent recuperation of urban planning in, 232–33. See also education, urban design; Harvard University's Graduate School of Design
- Design with Nature* (McHarg), 104, 159, 203
- destruction/construction: experience of, 88–89; space of competition called forth in, 89
- determinants of urban form: notion of, 71
- détournement*, 172
- détournement* and derive: Situationist International's psycho-geographical urbanism of, 140
- Detroit, Michigan, 278; deindustrialization of, 266; deurbanization in, 272, 277; Gratiot plan for, 11, 49, 50, 52; Lafayette Park urban renewal, 228–29, 233
- deurbanization, 272, 277
- developer(s): collaborating at earliest phases of development with, need for, 208; definition of urban design as a practice, 149; enlightened urban-minded, 320; large-scale urban design directed by, 208, 217; sense of importance of widened perspective emerging among, 287; urban designers working for, 68
- Diamond Ranch High School (Mayne), 215
- digital software, 249
- Diller + Scofidio, 134
- disciplinary allegiances: changing, ix–x
- disciplinary despecialization: ambivalence toward, 230–31
- discipline: urban design as, 82–83
- Disney Corporation, 177
- Disneyland, 169–70; New Urbanism's Seaside and Celebration projects as Disneyesque, Sorkin on, 176–77
- dispersed city, 320–23; moments of urbanity in, 321
- distractions in urban design: current, 268–69
- Ditch School of Urban Design, 189–97; approach of, 190; creation of “facts on the ground” by, 190, 196; difference between bottom-up urbanism and advocacy planning and, 196–97; interventions as tactical manipulations of political landscapes, 190; Jeanne van Heeswijk, Vlaardingen, 190, 194–96, 197n5; as oppositional, 196; Rahul Mehrotra, Mumbai, 190, 193–94, 197n4; Urban Think Tank, Caracas, 190, 191–93
- diversity: globalization and cultural, 263; New Urbanism and growing, 174–75; of publics, 136–37; Sorkin on future of urban design and, 181–82; Talen on, 184–85
- Don Mills, Toronto (Hancock), 49, 50
- Doshi, Balkrishna, 30
- “Do We Need Artists?” (Giedion), 20–21
- Downsview Park in Toronto, 298, 299, 311
- Doxiadis, Constantinos, 196
- Duany, Andrés, xviiiin10, 127, 146, 152n12, 188, 219, 225