

- John F. Kennedy International Airport, Terminal 4, 288
- Johnson, Philip, 66
- “Junk Space”: Koolhaas on, 147
- Justement, Louis, 17, 33n5
- justice, social, 274; everyday urbanism and, 173, 232; Modernism and, 176; New Urbanism and, 176, 180; pleasure and, 170; social planners and, 67; social upheaval of 1960s and 1970s and, 272; urban transformation based on desire for, 182, 183–84
- Justice Riots in Los Angeles (1992), 269
- Kahn, Louis I., 11, 61, 66, 69, 70, 215
- Kaldor, Mary, 284n9
- Kaliski, John, xv, 135, 236n3; on democratic planning and design in Los Angeles, 237–52
- Kapoor, Anish, 308, 313
- Kaprow, Allan, 148
- Katrina (hurricane): urban design in response to, 186–89, 201
- Kelbaugh, Doug, 175
- Kendall Square in Cambridge, 220, 226nn7–8
- Kent, Fred, 218
- Kepes, Gyorgy, 8, 45, 63
- Ketchum, Morris, 24
- Kilbridge, Maurice, 53
- Kim, Susie, 219
- kinetic city, 193–94. See also informal cities of global South
- King, Ingrid, xviii n2
- Kling, Rob, 284n7
- Klumpner, Hubert, 191, 197n3
- Kobe: processes of reconstruction, 88–89
- Koetter, Fred, 143, 152n9, 163, 210, 219
- Koetter, Kim & Associates, 219, 296
- Koolhaas, Rem, 83, 120, 127, 132, 138, 143, 252n5, 311; denunciation of Jacobs, 180–81; exporting Amerika, 146–48
- Kopp, Anatole, 152n13
- Krieger, Alex, 113–30, 151n4, 228, 291; on adjacency as important urban design methodology, 310; on architecture of city, 117–18; on art of “place-making,” 120–23; on authorship, 295, 296; on bridging disciplines involved in urbanism, 115–16, 304, 306; on Central Square, Boston, 297; on Chicago’s Millennium Park, 313; on Chicago’s tradition of acceptance of innovative environments, 312; on city centers, 321; on community advocacy (or doing no harm), 127–29; on definition of urban design, 303, 304; on form-based category of public policy, 116–17; on infrastructure of city, 124–25; on landscape urbanism, 125–26; on moving beyond shock of the new, 325; on regulations, 323; on restorative urbanism, 118–20; at roundtable discussion, 291, 295–99, 297, 303, 304, 306, 310, 312–16, 321, 323, 325; on smart growth, 123; on urban design as frame of mind, 129–30; on urban design for maintenance of urbanism, 315; on visionary urbanism, 126–27
- Krier, Léon, xviii n10, 210, 211, 219, 226n5