

- Meyerson, Martin, 46
- Michael Van Valkenburgh Associates, 225n4, 226n8
- Michelangelo, 25, 215
- micromanagement of urban production by public, 243–44
- microretail: regulations requiring percentage of, 214
- Micro Urbanism studies: Atelier Bow-Wow's, 148
- middle class: expansion in 1950s, 255, 267; public life centered around lifestyle of, 317–18; revaluing of city as site of desirable middle-class lifestyles, 164–65
- Middle East: instantaneous city-scale developments in, 286
- Milan: Italian CIAM's "AR" plan for, 36n35
- Miliutin, Nikolai, 147
- Mill Creek, Philadelphia, 11, 61
- Mill Creek, St. Louis (Pei), 49, 50
- millenarianism, 168
- Millennium Park, Chicago, 124, 289, 308–9, 312–13, 314, 315
- mini-police stations, 268
- Miscikowski, Cindy, 239
- Mississippi Renewal Forum, 188
- Mitchell, Robert B., 66
- MIT-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies, 46
- mixed-income communities, 287, 289
- mixed-use mall in Glendale, California, 239–40, 243
- mobility: integrating urban form and, 124–25. See also transportation/transportation system(s)
- Modernist architecture: critique of late orthodox, 66; sensibilities of, 63; shoehorned into preindustrial frame, 143–44; in Vlaardingen, Westwijk, van Heeswijk's reanimation of, 195–96
- Modernist urbanism, 19; conflict between proclaimed social mission and dogmatic formalism, 156; conservative Modernism, 26; Corbusian urbanism, 146; Detroit's Lafayette Park urban renewal project, 228–29, 233; Ditch urbanism echoing, 196–97; divide between self-conscious heirs to and apostates of, 189, 201; as extension of social movements for reform of inequalities, 179–80; First Urban Design Conference as guiding force of late, 65; ideological convergence of New Urbanism and, 176; landscape urbanism and rereading of environmental and social aspirations of, 227–28, 233; postwar Italian Modernism, 26; potential benefit of recuperation of, 233; Sert and Sasaki's effort to synthesize pedestrian urban and natural environments with, 28
- modernization: distinct form in United States of, 146; urban designers as agents of, x–xii
- Modern Movement, xiii, 189
- Moholy-Nagy, László, 32n3
- moments of urbanity, 321
- Montgomery, Roger, 51
- Moore, Charles, 169
- moral imperatives, 231
- morality, 99–100
- Moses, Robert, 54, 115, 159, 163, 169
- Moussavi, Farshid, 231, 291; on bridging disciplines involved in urbanism, 304, 305, 306;