

- on design as part of process, 297–98; on enlightened urban-minded developers, 320; on Hillside Terrace in Tokyo, 298; on project incompleteness, 295; on redevelopment from industry to leisure through retail, 320; on Turbine Hall at Tate Museum, 307; on urban design in Europe, 319–20; on urban spaces, 292–93
- Moynihan Station, Midtown Manhattan, 288
- multicentered city, 92, 94; neighborhood as basic unit of, 108
- multiplied grounds (urbanistic project), 132
- Mumbai, India: as showcase for failure of official urbanism, 193; Urban Design Research Institute in, 190, 193–94
- Mumford, Eric, xiii, xviiiⁿ6, 151ⁿ4, 157, 228
- Mumford, Lewis, 10, 17, 18, 45, 85, 102, 107, 113, 115, 159, 196, 206, 304–5; in debate over ecology, 160; dedication to and love of cities, 182; disagreement with Sert's reading of city, 157–58; at First Urban Design Conference (1956), 11, 157, 255–56; on politics and culture as distinguishing marks of city, 157–58; Talen on, 183–84
- Murray, Hubert, 314
- Muschenheim, William, 45
- Museum of Modern Art (MoMA) reconstruction, New York, 98
- MVRDV, 186, 188
- Myerson, Martin, 66
- Nash, John, 139
- National Urban Coalition, 53
- natural environment: McHarg on, 104, 141–42; recycled territories, 133; urban design and, Barnett on, 104–5. See also environmentalism
- nature, relationship of city to: cultural predisposition to new form of coexistence, 204; new opportunities to forge, 206
- neighborhood councils, 242, 246–48
- Neighborhood Empowerment Academy (Los Angeles), 247
- neighborhood planning: New York City, 161; rediscovery of, 107–8
- neighborhood unit concept, 17
- Neis, Hajo, xviiiⁿ2
- neoliberal economics, 162
- Neomodernism, 68, 219
- neotraditional suburb, 174
- Neotraditional Town Planning (British version of New Urbanism), 257
- neotraditional urbanism: powerful attraction of, 175
- Netherlands Architecture Institute (NAI), 186
- network of communication and productive capacity: global city as node in, 273, 274
- Neutra, Richard, 4, 23, 45, 89, 271; definition of urban design, 54; on natural environment, 104
- New Deal: Garden City–inspired decentralized planning used under, 19
- “Newer Orleans—A Shared Space” (exhibition, 2006), 186–89
- Newman, Oscar, 159
- New Monumentality, 33ⁿ14
- New Orleans: Dutch architects' plans for future of, 186–89;