
Contents

Introduction	1
Section One Understanding urban design	5
1 'Places' matter most F. Tibbalds	9
2 Ambiguities of urban design A. Madanipour	12
3 Urban environments as visual art or as social settings? A review R. K. Jarvis	24
4 An integrative theory of urban design E. Sternberg	33
5 Postmodern urban form A. Loukaitou-Sideris and T. Banerjee	43
6 A procedural explanation for contemporary urban design R. Varkki George	52
Section Two The morphological dimension	59
7 What is lost space? R. Trancik	63
8 The grid as generator L. Martin	70
9 Typology: an architecture of limits D. Kelbaugh	83
Section Three The perceptual dimension	99
10 On the identity of places E. Relph	103
11 Reconsidering the image of the city K. Lynch	108
12 The social production of the built environment: architects, architecture and the post-Modern city P. L. Knox	114