

Left: The pole garden and existing concrete wharf structures have been retained which reflect upon the site's post industrial history
 Upper right: An existing "whale bone" structure has been recited and reworked into an existing and playful entry element
 Lower right: Crossing points have been designed to allow access across the central swale

