

If you concentrate instead on what you have to give to others, you will find that what you need comes to you naturally